

Script: Hands and Eyes

Teacher: Class!

Students: Yes!

Teacher: The next technique is very simple. Whenever I need to make a BIG point, I'll say, "Hands and eyes!" You say, "Hands and eyes," and fold your hands and stare at me, as if you can't wait to hear the words I'm going to say. Let's try it: Hands and eyes! (The teacher folds his/her hands quickly, too.)

Students: Hands and eyes! (The students quickly fold their hands and stare intently at the teacher.)

Teacher: Great! Let's try it again. Hands and eyes! (The teacher folds his/her hands quickly, too.)

Students: Hands and eyes! (Folding their hands even more quickly.)

Teacher: Fantastic!

- The teacher does NOT give a Smiley every time the class follows directions...or a negative point every time they don't follow directions. If this was the case, the game would be controlling the teacher, instead of vice versa. The beauty of the Scoreboard is that (never forget!) YOU are the Scorekeeper. Points are marked entirely at your discretion!
